The first two species were collected from the same locality, and therefore it is probable that they are not different species. The last two, however, probably belong to different genera.

and the same date as the one above, he also stated that he had received his "copy of the Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1893, Vol. 11, No. 1, pp. 341-16, San Francisco," and that he had never seen it before.

Nowell's "Principles and Practice of Commercial Law," Vol. I, pp. 100-101. The author says: "Commercial Combinations are subject to the law of contracts, and are to be interpreted according to established doctrine and usage." See also id. at p. 102, where he says: "The law of contracts applies to commercial combinations, and it is for the judge to decide whether or not they are commercial combinations."

the first time I have seen it, and I am sure it is not more than 150 feet long. It is a very large tree, and has a very large trunk. The bark is smooth and grey, and the leaves are large and green. The tree is growing in a field, and there are other trees and bushes around it. The ground is covered with grass and weeds. The sky is clear and blue. The sun is shining brightly. The tree is casting a long shadow on the ground. The trunk of the tree is very thick, and the branches are spreading outwards. The leaves are arranged in whorls along the branches. The tree is leaning slightly to the left. The trunk is straight and upright. The branches are curved and twisted. The leaves are pointed and serrated. ... I began to set my hand to where the next went and I found it was a very difficult thing to get it right, therefore I took a little time, thinking it a good idea to have the dog's head with one of his front legs, so as to make it look more like a dog. I think it turned out all right, though.

the first time I ever heard of it, and thought it was a very good idea. I have never seen any other country where they have such a system of public instruction.

in the same place, and the same day, as the other two, and was directed to me by Miss Baldwin, who had been engaged by one end of the party, and was to have been at the time of the meeting, but had not come.

the first time, and I have been told that it is a very famous one. It is a large, well-constructed building, and is situated in a very convenient part of the city. The interior is spacious and well-lighted, and the exterior is well-kept and attractive. The building is surrounded by trees and shrubs, and is located near a park or garden. The building
